Sporting fraternity and sports lovers across the country applauded and felt happy when President Pranab Mukherji handed over the prestigious Arjuna awards to several eminent sports personalities at a glittering function in the national capital recently on the occasion of National sports Day.

However, nobody perhaps would have given thought to the creator of the slick and wonderfully created trophies that dazzled in the hands of these well known sporting icons. The unsung hero Gajendra Prasad Sahu, a painter and sculptor based in Bhubaneswar.

The 53 year old artist has been making the Arjuna Award trophies for the last five years. Not only Arjuna Awards, Sahu is also the creator of well designed Dronacharya, Dhyanchand and Tenzing Norgay trophies that are presented every year by the Union Sports and Youth Affairs Ministry to an eminent coach, an important hockey player and an individual for bravery respectively.

The turning point in Sahu's life, however came in 2009 when the Ministry of Sports and Youth affairs to re-design the trophy for the popular and most sought after Arjuna Award for sporting icons and invited applications from artists across the country.

Sahu responded and sent the sketches of his designs which were approved by the Union Ministry. Once the preliminary sketches were okayed, he was summoned to New Delhi to submit his final design, which too was approved and he was assigned the job of making the trophies for the prestigious sports awards every year. He won the job despite stiff competition from individual as well as institutional competitors.

Interestingly, though Sahu creates the most coveted trophies for the Indian sports icons, he never had any personal interest in sports. His works of paintings have found a place in art galleries and exhibitions in different parts of the country.

24. When we buy something, we give some form of money in exchange for the goods, resources or services. Every country has its own system of coins and paper money. However money as we know it is of recent origin. In the beginning people followed the barter system. That is people exchanged a bag of rice for some clothes or loads of wood. But it is a complicated and tedious procedure because people could sometimes not agree about the worth of the exchange and at times did not want what the other person had to offer.

In order to solve this problem, human beings thought of a common medium of exchange. Some of the commodities used as money were salt, tea, tobacco, cattle and even slaves! Even this system was a difficult as these were difficult to carry and store. It was then that people came up with the idea of coins-something that was easy to store and was not perishable.

About 5000B.C metal coins were introduced as money gold coins were introduced in the western world by 700B.C the introduction of coins helped trade to flourish because it simplified transactions, and made it possible to carry on trade over long distances. Soon, coins were also made of silver and other metals. When the first paper money was introduced in China people did not take it very seriously. Kublai Khan, the Mongol emperor who ruled China in the 13th century would be executed. He confiscated all the coins people possessed even those carried by foreign visitors.

Today we have different kinds of currency with different values in different countries. This makes transaction difficult as the money has to be converted into local currency. In order to avoid this, 12 countries in Europe got together and in 2001, introduces a common currency called the Euro, which has replaced their national currencies.
