Another good scorer

Another Bengaluru student, Rakshita Ramesh, has secured the 41st rank in NEET and hopes to study at Bangalore Medical College.

Though she could try for medical colleges in other states, she wants to be close to home.

Rakshita had secured the 41st rank in the admission test for Indian Systems of Medicine and Homoeopathy and BSc (Agriculture), but had been waiting for NEET results as she is keen on MBBS.

“I want to become a neurologist as I am interested in the human brain and its functioning,” she said.

She said questions in the entrance test must not be confusing.

She conceded, the list will be provided to the KEA, after which a notification will be issued. She said she will meet the representatives of private medical colleges on June 28 to discuss seat matrix.
